Mr. Gillette

April 20 – April 24

Week Four of eLearning! I miss you all and hope you're doing well. A light week this week (no essay; just reading, which should be nice). Then on Friday, I'm going to post some contemporary clips that we can all analyze rhetorically in a roundtable. And that's it. Be well, everybody!

“Until now, I never understood why you got so excited when someone walked past the house.”

Monday, April 20

- Don't forget to submit your rhetorical analysis essay to Google Classroom by 11:59 p.m.

Tuesday, April 21

- Check Google Classroom for outside reading final presentation guidelines.

Wednesday, April 22

- Read, my friends! Enjoy your time with your choice book.

Thursday, April 23

- Read more, keep plugging along!

Friday, April 24

- Check Google Classroom for short rhetorical analysis assignment (due Monday, April 27)

Standards we will be covering this week:

- Present information, findings, and supporting evidence clearly, concisely, and logically such that listeners can follow the line of reasoning and the organization, development, substance, and style are appropriate to purpose, audience, and task.
- Make strategic use of digital media (e.g., textual, graphical, audio, visual, and interactive elements) in presentations to enhance understanding of findings, reasoning, and evidence and to add interest.
- Adapt speech to a variety of contexts and tasks, demonstrating command of formal English when indicated or appropriate.
