- learning must be at the core of our daily lives to prepare for citizenship in the 21st century.
- learning is life long for all members of our community.
- students learn in different ways and, therefore, must be provided with opportunities that meet their individual needs.
- the ever-changing needs of students require that professional development must be ongoing, based on research, aligned with district goals, and embedded in our daily work.
- the actions of the members of our learning community must provide students with effective models of citizenship, thereby fostering students who are responsible, accountable, and respectful.
- a safe and caring learning environment is critical for the success of our students.
- collaboration with and among students, staff, parents, and community is essential for continuous improvement.
- school pride in academics and all other activities should be shared with and among
